

His game. His rules. Her life.

Dear Reader,

I'm thrilled to share an advance copy of WITH MY LITTLE EYE (to be published April 25), a hair-raising new novel by New York Times bestselling author Joshilyn Jackson, who Entertainment Weekly has dubbed "a master of domestic suspense." In this gripping page-turner, a mother moves herself and her daughter across the country to lose a dangerous stalker—only to discover that it will take more than distance to escape him. Jackson's clever pacing and chilling reveals make this addictive novel a great fit for fans of Liane Moriarty, Lucy Foley, and Megan Miranda. I'm hoping you'll consider coverage of this exciting read this spring.

You may recall Jackson's previous suspense novels Never Have I Ever (2019) and Mother May I (2021), which garnered praise from People Magazine, Wall Street Journal, PopSugar, and more. Now, Jackson once again displays her talent for crafting unforgettable characters and surprising twists. As author Abbott Kahler says, "Joshilyn Jackson proves once again that she's not only a masterful storyteller, but a literary magician... this is her best yet. I defy you to put it down."

For actress Meribel Mills, disturbing fan mail is part of the price of fame. So when she starts getting creepy letters written in fruit-scented marker she is mostly unfazed and diligently files them along with her other messages from unhinged fans. After all, she's a single mom approaching forty, not the kind of hot young celeb who sparks dangerous obsessions. But there's something different about Marker Man...

Meribel's sheets smell of unfamiliar cologne, and objects have gone missing around the house. Plus, the letters have become more perverse, with drawings of a naked Meribel tied up or chopped into pieces. While the police insist that stalkers hardly ever escalate to violence, Meribel has played the dead girl one too many times on TV to risk becoming her in real life. She and her daughter move from Los Angeles to Atlanta for a fresh start—but no distance is great enough. Years of being in front of a camera have given Meribel a superpower—she can feel eyes on her, a creeping sensation like bees inside her skin. And someone definitely has her in their sights. Could Marker Man have followed her all the way across the country?

Who else might be watching—her ex-husband? The lover she left behind in LA? Her new neighbor? Suddenly, every man in her life is a suspect, but she can't keep herself and her daughter safe from a monster she can't identify. When the paths of all these men collide, Meribel will find herself alone in the fight of her life, desperate to protect those she loves as danger closes in from all sides.

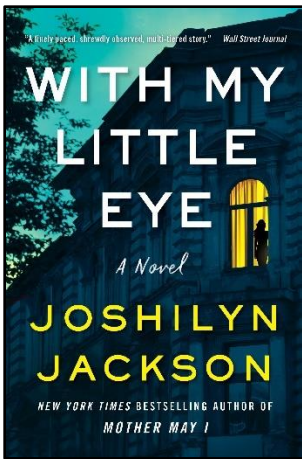

Among the intriguing topics Joshilyn Jackson can elaborate on in a discussion of the novel:

- The lengths people will go to protect their family, especially mothers when their children are threatened.
- Issues surrounding fame, stalking, privacy, and vulnerability in the age of social media.
- How a relationship can be perceived in wildly different ways by the people involved, and the fine line between love and obsession.
- Can someone who harbors big secrets ever fully trust someone else?
- The unrealistic beauty standards and pressures put on aging women.
- Parenting a neuro-divergent child – an experience Joshilyn shares with her main character.
- The experience of recording the audiobook (Jackson is an award-winning narrator) along with an impressive ensemble, including her own daughter, Maisy Winn.

Thanks very much for considering coverage and for keeping WITH MY LITTLE EYE in mind for any spring preview features or roundups. Please let me know if you'd like more information or if you're interested in speaking with the author.
